GRAND JURY HEARS STORY OF SLAYING BY MRS. GIBSON

Woman Who Says She Saw
Double Killing Called;
Mrs. Hall Waits

SAN JOAQUIN (N. J.), Nov. 25.—With Mrs. Frances N. Hall sitting at the door of the grand jury room waiting a chance to demand a hearing, Mrs. Jane Gibson today told the investigators her "eye witness story" of the Hall-Mills murder.

Entering the jury room, Mrs. Gibson walked within a few feet of Mrs. Hall, who she asserts she saw at the scene of the tragedy the night of September 16.

Shows No Emotion
The widow did not twitch a muscle of her face or shift her gaze as the "eye witness" passed. She remained completely calm. Mrs. Gibson was flanked by state police as she paraded down the corridor to the jury chamber.

Her testimony was secret, but it is not altered her tale, she told the jurors she was riding her mule in "Lovers Lane" on the abandoned Phillips farm September 14 and that in the glare of an automobile headlight she recognized Mrs. Hall standing by the road.

Witnesses Slaying
A few minutes later she has stated, she witnessed the slaying of the "eye witness" passed. She "wonder heart," Mrs. Eleanor Mills. Later in the night Mrs. Gibson asserts she returned to the scene and saw a woman weeping over the

Farm Bureau Members Hold Dinner To Honor Three Past Presidents

Half a hundred directors and members of the Fresno County Farm Bureau and university extension service gathered at the Hughes Hotel last night at a farm bureau banquet honoring Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wrightson, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver and Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Murphy.

Speeches complimenting the honored guests were made by several of the hosts, who were directors of the farm bureau.

Wrightson, after two years as president of the local bureau, retired from the office recently, declining to compete in the annual farm bureau election this year, when H. E. Knapp of Sanger was chosen president.

Weaver also is a past president of the bureau, having held the office for three years. Murphy is leaving Fresno December 2, for San Luis Obispo County, where he will be an adviser, having been promoted to that post from assistant farm adviser of Fresno County. He was in charge of livestock and dairy work in the local office.

Bodies. She alleges this woman was Mrs. Hall.

As Mrs. Gibson gave her testimony behind the closed and guarded doors, Mrs. Hall continued her "picketing" of the grand jury entrance without a sign of emotion. She appeared almost affable as she chatted with her lawyer.

Wage Board Asked To Increase Pay Scale In Several Labor Crafts

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Requests for wage scale adjustments on a higher level in several trades were presented to the Imperial Wage Board yesterday in the final public hearing. In several cases with the endorsement of the employers as well as the men.

The three members of the board, Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, H. J. Brandenstein and C. G. Mitchell, who for the first time since the consideration of any further matters that may be submitted to them.

An $5 scale for roppers, advancing 50 percent over the present scale, was recommended by James Canley, who stated that the employers recognized the irregular nature of the work and the fact that outside workers were offering as high as $10 a day.

The new scale, it was stated, would go far toward settling trouble that has persisted over the past year.

Representing the twenty-two workers in the spring fitting craft, Frank Espey asked that the wage now fixed at $7.20 be raised to $8, the sum he stated was being paid by some companies. Espey emphasized the hazardous nature of the calling and the likelihood of unemployment.

Paul Langhouse, speaking for the varnishers and polishers, declared that the existing $1 a day difference between inside and outside men in the painting crafts was too much and asked an adjustment in favor of the finishers.

The plumbers and steamfitters had no complaint to make except to ask the elimination of the term "helpers" in their records, their "helpers" being apprentices.

C. Alford, speaking for the streetcar drivers, asked that the rate of the trade as a piece for an additional $1 a day.

Policeman, Bandit, Die In Street Gun Battle

COLEMAN (Ohio), Nov. 25.—A policeman and a bandit were slain in a street battle here today.

The officer, G. P. Koehler, was shot through the abdomen after he thought an had disarmed four bandits who were attacking a street car.

The bandit, who was armed with a revolver, was shot in a hospital several hours later.

The Deductions of Harvey Hunt

By PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN
(Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Co.)

Yesterday's Mystery Solution
The clue on which Harvey based his reasoning in the case of the "Twin Robberies" was the peculiar fact that one of those robberies was no robbery at all.

Yess, had broken into the Drifwater mansion and stolen a $200,000 necklace. He had broken into the Klegg house and taken nothing. In fact, it was only by accident that this second entry was revealed.

At first thought it looked as though Klegg merely had wished to play the discovery that he had robbed the Klegg house. This would have been natural except for the fact that he had been at no such pains to delay discovery of the necklace robbery. And besides, and Hunt, with Klegg's assistance, he hadn't even robbed the Klegg house! Why, then, had he entered at all?

He had gotten rid of his foot somewhere before the patrolman had entered a house he did not rob, and had tried to conceal the fact that he entered it. Clearly, he had entered the Klegg house for no other purpose than to hide the necklace he had stolen next door.

The police told Harvey Hunt himself and the parrot, he had not left Tison City until after law in wait for him that night and bagged him when he entered and unconsciously revealed to them the place in the cellar where he had hidden the necklace.

NIX
Can you explain the—
Vanishing Footprints

The vanishing footprints of Sim Gilson caused such a stir throughout Tison County that Brainerd, at whose ranch Harvey Hunt had stopped off for a few days on his way to Los Angeles, could not help hearing of it, and since Brainerd was a close personal friend of Bob Maguire, the sheriff, it was not long before the criminal investigation found himself injected into the case.

Sim Gilson was the manager of the Buford smelters, which were just outside Tison City. Every Thursday it was his custom to walk out to the smelters with the payroll for the next day, amounting to about $1,500. On the day that his footprints vanished, together with himself and the payroll, he had dark. The cashier of the bank testified that he had to go over to Sturteville to order some supplies. Just the kind of marks a man's feet would make if somebody rode up behind him, grabbed him by the back of the neck and dragged him along the ground. Then, like I said, further on it looks just like only his feet were being dragged along, and then all of a sudden the tracks disappear. The dust is pretty deep right there, too. What do you make of it, Mr. Hunt?

"But it ain't all just like that, see here. This is where I'd say the other guy hit him first. The regular footprints stop. Looks like Sim had been whittled around suddenly-like, rushed off his feet, and his whole body dragged along the ground. Then, like I said, further on it looks just like only his feet were being dragged along, and then all of a sudden the tracks disappear. The dust is pretty deep right there, too. What do you make of it, Mr. Hunt?"

For a moment Harvey Hunt stared at the ground. Then his keen eyes caught another mark. He pointed to it.

"What do you suppose that is?" a snake," he asked.

"None," said Maguire, "a snake don't wiggle just that way. Looks more to me like the mark of the loose end of a jacket.

"That settles it then," said Harvey Hunt with conviction. "our friend Gilson didn't meet with foul play. On the contrary, he himself is the man who has robbed the smelter company of its payroll, and he's made a very clever getaway, probably without any thought as to whether you'd follow his footprints and find them vanishing or not. Here's the way I hope it out—"

Can you deduce what Harvey did from those marks in the alkali dust? The answer will appear to-morrow.

TIERNAN WAITS COURT DECISION

Professor Views Matrimonial
Tangle As Interesting
Case

validated when the divorce from his first wife was annulled by Judge Montgomery here Saturday.

Iowa Bride Waits

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, Nov. 28.

—Professor John P. Tiernan's Iowa bride today was waiting for her husband to come to her. Following a conversation with the former

Notre Dame professor over the long distance telephone, Mrs. Blanche

Hawn Brimmer Tiernan announced

she expected Tiernan to arrive

Wednesday morning.

Just what the conversation was about, the second Mrs. Tiernan has refused to reveal.

But she said she was going

the claims of Mrs. Augusta to fight for her rights against Tiernan.

She believes Tiernan will demonstrate his loyalty to her as soon as doubts about the existence of another marriage bond are cleared up.

Attorney Retained

County Attorney A. B. Hoover declared he had been retained to investigate Mrs. Tiernan's number two's previous marriage with Arthur H. Brimmer and that he would send the facts to Professor Tiernan.

Mrs. Tiernan, then the ex-Mrs.

Rash, married Brimmer at Okla-lahoma in September, 1919, but Brimmer had another wife at the time,

according to Hoover and was not divorced from her until March,

1920. Under the Iowa law Mrs.

Tiernan's marriage with Brimmer was void.

Mrs. Tiernan was expected to go back to her parents, Rev. and Mrs.

Charles Hawn at Okla., and then possibly return to Marshalltown for her expected meeting with Tiernan.

WRIGHT ACT IS MEETING TOPIC

Fresno kiss each other to-night, he said, alluding to his home in the Santa Clara Valley.

He congratulated the people of Fresno, a grape center, on the vote

they gave the dry act.

"The Eighteenth Amendment will never come out of the Constitution of the United States," he said. "Our congressmen are in favor of the dry movement, and thirty-six states agree to it."

"It is necessary to impress on the foreign population of the United States the meaning of the word

law. If they are not willing to obey the law there are plenty of ships running back to the countries from which they came."

400 Curses

"There will be 400 curses to uphold the Constitution and 20,000 prohibition officers to see that the law is obeyed."

"The Wright law has been drawn up by six of the cleverest lawyers of the state, and we can cope with any situation that might arise. We have resources in every case."

"The Wright law is largely through the efforts of Chester Bowell that the victory of the Wright act was brought about."

Captain Frank B. Ebbert, Western director of the Anti-Saloon

League, spoke of the activities of the organization and its co-operation with workers in the Wright campaign.

"The hardest part of the fight is yet ahead," he said. "Dry America is only a step toward a dry world."

Arthur H. Briggs, one of the organizers of the Anti-Saloon League, aid of the activities of the organization and congratulated the workers in the campaign.

Dr. H. H. Bell closed the meeting with a benediction.

Tiger To Give U.S. Bitter Pill In Address To-day

ceau is a statesman, as he was a physician of the old school. "Treat
'em rough," he once said laughing, and now he is going to put it into practice.

Lighter Side To Reception
There has been, of course, a lighter side to the Tiger's reception on the amper, homely, hospitable bosom of the "windy city."

The city that was but a tiny one when last Clemenceau saw it, more than half a century ago, paid homage to its distinguished guest today.

Chicago, in the Tiger's own words, has grown beyond all recognition since those days in the '90s, when young Clemenceau stood on its threshold, but, then, so has the Tiger.

Tribute Paid

Leading citizens, in tribute, recalled the umpire he has played and the new maps of Europe he has drawn with his own firm hand since the school teacher days of the last century.

And through the adulation that the city heaped at the doorstep of the Potter Palmer residence on the "Gold Coast," where Clemenceau rested and prepared his speech, the Tiger, though gratified, bared his teeth.

The Tiger has remained adamant on the point that his message must be clear, he said, and he will not be shamed for battle, not pats, such as a great, friendly, jovial tiger might deliver, have no part in his scheme of things, despite placers counselling of friends.

Ready For Fray

When a tiger of the Indian junks feels death coming on, it goes out and meets death fighting, whatever the odds. Something of this is in the old Frenchman's attitude,

he admits.

Clemenceau's speech to-day will be in a measure tuned to the ear of the Middle West, whose voice

Chicago roared him welcome upon his arrival here late yesterday.

General Pershing met Clemenceau

at the station and the dimensioned Mr. Pershing hurried himself into "Black Jack's" husky arms, exclaiming:

"How glad I am to see you

FLOOD PROTECTION IMMEDIATE NEED

Colorado River Commission
Urges Prompt Work On Prevention Means

SANTA FE (N. M.), Nov. 28.—The need of immediate protection of California and Arizona from floods was recognized by the Colorado River Commission here, which recently concluded the drafting of a treaty for division of waters of the Colorado River among seven western states.

The following resolution was adopted by the commission:

"The members of the Colorado River Commission have had constantly before them the great menace by annual floods to the lives and property of the imperial and Palo Verde valleys in California and the Yuma Valley in Arizona and the anxiety of their citizens. Therefore they earnestly recommend and urge the early construction of works in the Colorado River to control the floods and permanently avoid the menace, such construction to be made subject to the terms of the Colorado River compact."

DRUGGISTS PLAN COUNTY MEETING

Madera Pharmacists Also To Be Present At Big
Banquet

Fresno druggists and representative members of the Fresno and Madera Counties Pharmaceutical Association will hold a banquet to-night at the Hughes Hotel, followed by a brief business session. Secretary Lloyd announced to-day. Several new members are expected to be taken in at the business meeting and a resolution urging co-operation with the California State Pharmaceutical Association will be offered.

Representatives of the organization from Madera, Selma, Clovis, Sanger and Reedley will be present to-night. The object of the body is to protect the welfare of the members by co-operating with the state associations. E. J. ## Missile From Unknown Person Injures Chinese Following an altercation in the Matel Vineyard at Malaga Head, Chinese, was hit in the head at 5:30 A. M. to-day by a stick of wood thrown at him by one of the men on the farm, according to a report at the city emergency hospital to-day by Buck, who had his wounds dressed.

Buck suffered a contusion and laceration of his left eye and cheek. No action has been taken as the Chinese did not know the name of the man who injured the stick of wood, but the injured man intimated to-day that he would swear out a warrant later in the day.

Loss Of Man's Legs Fails To Halt Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Mary Carroll, daughter of Erin, on Thanksgiving Day will fulfill the vow she made last June when Michael Brown was run over by a street car.

"I'll marry him even though he be maimed for life," she said.

Since then both of Brown's legs have been amputated.

"It's life I care about," said Mary to-day as she announced that she and Michael would be married Thanksgiving Day.

"Sure and street heart is true to me," joined in Brown as she smiled from his wheel chair upon his bride-to-be.

HIGHWAY BODY TO BE REORGANIZED

Governor-Elect Richardson
Announces He Will Make
Many Changes

SACRAMENTO (Calif.), Nov. 28.—Definite announcement that he will completely reorganize the state highway department was made to-day by Friend W. Richardson, governor-elect.

Richardson declared the four-inch concrete roads of the state have "proved a total failure" and the five-inch roads a "practical failure."

"Millions of dollars of the people's money has been squandered on worthless roads," he charged.

Richardson says he plans to confer with the directors of the two automobile clubs in the state, in picking his new highway commission.

He adds that he believes all highway work should be halted until the new board takes office, in view of the fact that no money is in sight to meet contracts now being signed up this year by the present board.

Thugs Rob Till But Leave Man's Salary

Thugs got $10 from the till but failed to take a week's salary from the pockets of H. H. Gehrke, service man at the Associated Oil Station at A and Fresno Streets at 9 P. M. yesterday, according to a report to the police.

An automobile drove up around the corner of Mariposa Street, according to Gehrke, and stopped. A man in a slouch hat stepped out and pointed a revolver at the station man through a hole in his coat. The automobile went around the corner of Fresno Street and disappeared.

Papers For $50,000 Corporation Filed

Incorporation papers were filed at the office of the secretary of state in Sacramento to-day by the R. S. Lewis Company of Fresno, concern formed for the manufacture of vehicle springs. Frank Waterfield, one of the directors, announced to-day. The other directors are Jefferson J. Robbe and Dave Schuler, also of Fresno. The capital stock is listed in the papers at $50,000.

U. S. WILL SEEK PACT WITH TURKEY

Separate Treaty With Nationalist Government Is To Be Sought

(By the United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Near Eastern peace conference at Lausanne is about to mark another break between the policies of the United States and the great allied powers.

The United States' government will not be a party to the treaty of peace between the allies, Greece and nationalists Turkey, but on the contrary is seeking a separate treaty with Turkey at Lausanne.

The main reason why the United States is not to be a party to the treaty of peace being framed at Lausanne is because this country was not at war with Turkey and hence this government does not feel warranted in maintaining such settlements as those affecting boundaries.

Proposed pact between the United States and nationalist Turkey is to be a treaty of amity and commerce. Some of the most important points to be covered, at least so far as American desires are concerned, are as follows:

- 1.—Guarantee of the "open door"—freedom of opportunity without discrimination or special privilege for commercial enterprises.
- 2.—Maintenance of capitulations—extra territorial rights in Turkey—necessary to safeguard non-Muslim interests.
- 3.—Indemnity for American losses in Turkey as a result of arbitrary and illegal acts.
- 4.—Protection of minorities and of philanthropic, educational and religious institutions.

LAWYER MARRIES FAIR DEFENDANT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Miss May Stamp, former Los Angeles teacher, who ran away last Spring with a 16 year old pupil, married her attorney, Raine Ewell, yesterday afternoon.

While Judge trout was pronouncing them man and wife a jury in an adjoining courtroom was deliberating on whether the bride should repay $185.50 to Dr. William P. Agnew, 68 year old physician, who sued for money loaned, board and lodging provided and telephone bills incurred. Attorney Ewell made a brilliant talk to the jury, denying that Miss Stamp owed the money. Agnew had been her fiancé, he argued, the money was a gift, the board and lodging mere hospitality. And as the jury had out Ewell and his client walked into Judge Trout's court and the ceremony was performed.

Shortly afterward the jury came back with a verdict of $35.23 to Dr. Agnew, this being the amount of a bill incurred by Miss Stamp at a local department store and paid by the aged physician. Agnew had been the verdict as a victory for her newly acquired husband.

SEATTLE YOUTH IS SHOT BY OFFICER

Policeman Claims Young Man Threw Flower Pot At Him

SEATTLE (Wash.), Nov. 28.—Shot through the shoulder by Patrolman J. H. Carlberg, Dick Holbrook, 20, was taken to the city hospital at 4 A. M. to-day while two other youths were under arrest.

The shooting occurred when the three boys alighted from a street car on their way home. It is alleged.

According to Officer Carlberg Holbrook picked up a flower pot and Schneider, one of the youths arrested, took a safety zone sign and started up the street. When they refused to halt, Carlberg fired a shot into a vacant lot. Schneider dropped the sign and Holbrook threw the flower pot at the policeman. The impact, according to Carlberg, discharged the revolver.

BURCH JURY TO GET CASE TO-DAY

Closing Arguments And Instructions Of Court To Occupy Most Of Day

LOS ANGELES (Cal.), Nov. 28.—Extended arguments in the trial of Arthur C. Burch occupied the entire session yesterday and probably will keep the case from the jury until late to-day.

Defense Attorney Paul Schenck concluded his plea, and Deputy District Attorney Black, who opened his last argument last night, was expected to talk during the entire morning session.

Judge Schenck will issue instructions to the jury and the jurors probably will retire to start deliberations about 3:30, according to indications to-day.

NEW MACHINE PATENTED

D. W. Ripley, master mechanic for the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers, has patented a new machine for sorting raisins. Issued a federal patent on a box stripping machine, according to word received to-day by Frank Waterfield, local patent attorney. The machine has been adopted by the raisin growers and does the work of three men. The device automatically nails metal strips on boxes used for packing and is said to be fast as well as efficient.

INUNCTION IS ASKED

Thompson Brothers filed suit in superior court to-day asking an injunction to restrain Frank Conley, John Gill, and others, from removing sand from the Dry Creek Canal. The plaintiffs allege that under an agreement they have with the Fresno Irrigation District they are entitled to all sand excavated from this canal and that the defendants have been encroaching upon their rights in this respect.

FORD DRIVEN INTO WINDOW

Miners To Present Wage Case To Harding

HAZELTON (Pa.), Nov. 28.—The facts of production in the anthracite field and the grievances of the miners will be presented to President Harding's Fact Finding Commission very soon, from the miners side, according to the miners' side.

The three district presidents of the United Mine Workers in the anthracite field are holding frequent meetings in an effort to draft a program to be submitted to the commission. Thomas Kennedy, president of district No. 7, announced to-day that the commission will direct its efforts toward an exhaustive investigation of wages, production, costs and all features of the entire coal industry. There will be a separate division of the commission to consider the hard coal field.

A document covering the entire field of anthracite production will be framed within a short time and presented to that part of the commission dealing with the anthracite field. Kennedy said miners' officials hoped that the facts brought out by the probe will be used to improve conditions and stabilize the anthracite field.

Y. M. C. A. DRIVE STILL GOING ON

Smaller Force Continues In Effort To Obtain
Finances

With a force of only thirty-five, the three majors leading the campaign to raise the balance of the amount necessary to carry on the work of the Fresno Branch of the Y. M. C. A., set out this morning to make the final canvass of the city.

$16,335 Obtained

In the four days during which the drive was conducted last week, pledges of $16,335 were obtained.

C. H. Cobb, who is directing the drive, was called away from Fresno. Those engaged in the campaign met as usual at noon to-day for lunch at the First Methodist Church. Talks by E. O. Hugbison, Fred Doleavy and H. W. Shields, the three majors, were to follow the lunch.

Outcome Doubtful

With fewer persons engaged in soliciting support for the Y. M. C. A. financial program, today a larger amount was to be collected than was secured on any one day last week.

The outcome, according to Secretary George A. Forber, is doubtful.

Congress Will See Firing Of Big Guns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—When the Atlantic and Pacific fleets join forces at Panama on February 15, 1923, to hold joint maneuvers under the command of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, they will probably have an audience composed of a number of congressmen and members of the two naval committees. In all probability this congressional delegation will leave the United States on board the transport Henderson.

One of the most interesting features of the coming exercises will be the testing out of the defenses of the Panama Canal. Plans to this end have been worked out by a joint army and navy board. There will be a moving target under radio control. There will be actual firing by the main batteries of the fleet against the Iowa.

The Atlantic fleet, before going to Panama, will hold its usual winter exercises at Guantanamo Bay. The Pacific fleet will carry out its regular schedule off San Pedro, California.

COOPERATION IS URGED FOR DRIVE

Red Cross Roll Call Needs Larger Community Support

A larger community support for the sixth annual Red Cross roll call was urged at the last roll call luncheon at the Hotel Fresno today. An intensive campaign for the drive was urged by the speakers. They declared that the reputation of Fresno is at stake, owing to its widely heralded prosperity, and a large subscription is necessary to uphold its good name.

Franklin Lowmyer, vice chairman of the sixth roll call, was to preside at the luncheon and speakers on the program were Attorney Lewis H. Smith, Rev. Thomas Clayton, Miss O. Humphrey, Al E. Sunderland and Miss Eva Hance, field secretary for the Red Cross.

Work of the Junior Red Cross was extolled by Miss O. Humphrey, who declared that "the thing that should appeal to the mind of every thinking man and woman in the United States is, that despite our complacency in what little we have done we are only on the threshold of solving the most interesting problem in modern civilization, the training of the boy and girl, and in teaching them the gospel service."

S. P. Domination Declared To Be Retarding Progress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The development of California is being retarded and the traveling and shipping interests are being greatly inconvenienced, it was charged by William H. Ford at San Francisco, because of the continued domination of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific.

Ford, who is a noted and gravel contractor with plants at Niles, Tracy and Waterford, Stanislaus County, said that the Southern Pacific has maintained a firm grip upon California and has declined to make any improvements other than when forced to do so either by the State Railroad Commission or to meet competition of other railroads.

Competition Needed.

"What California needs," he said, "is real competition to spur the Southern Pacific to give better facilities and more consideration to the needs of the traveling and shipping public."

"By the sale of the Central Pacific Railway," he continued, "the Southern Pacific will receive in its treasury an enormous sum of ready cash which it could buy any extensions, make many improvements and procure much needed equipment and make of itself perhaps the soundest financially and best physically equipped system in the United States, and still have a very goodly sum to distribute as a melon to its stockholders."

Could Not Delay.

In the event of its separation, however, the Southern Pacific could no longer delay transcontinental traffic via Central Pacific and connecting lines till exasperated shippers would thereafter be sent to ship via Southern Pacific Sunset Route.

Ford called attention of committee to the fact he is a member of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and that the unmerger question never had been presented for discussion to the more than 10,000 members, although the chamber has been making application to the Southern Pacific's application.

CONFIRMATION OF BUTLER APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Senate Judiciary Committee late today recommended the confirmation of Pierce Butler, St. Paul, as associate justice of the supreme court.

A protest against Butler by a man in Butte, Montana, was held by the committee to be of insufficient weight to warrant further consideration.

There were no votes against Butler's confirmation.

The action followed a request by Chief Justice Taft that the committee members expedite as much as possible on Butler's nomination because the court is now minus two justices—Justices Day and Pitney.

Civic Center Project To Be Considered By Commission To-Night

Revival of the proposed civic center project, which has been held in abeyance by the city and county governments for several weeks, will be revived at the meeting of the Fresno Planning Commission to-night, according to Miles O. Humphrey, who stated today that he would bring up the question. He declined to state the nature of his proposal.

In addition to the civic center discussion the commission will consider the new city zoning map which has been revised according to the last decisions of the commission. The new map was completed a few days ago by the engineering department of public works, but before its formal adoption it is expected that it will be necessary to modify the boundaries of some of the four classifications.

Until the map is officially adopted by the planning commission nothing will be done by the city attorney or the engineering department toward establishing official boundary lines which will become a part of the city planning ordinance.

Lions Donate Money To Charity To-Day At Hilarious Session

"It's no sin to have a good time," said Rev. Thomas T. Giffen in his address before the Fresno Lions Club at their weekly luncheon meeting at the Hotel Fresno to-day when the Lions enjoyed one of the most hilarious sessions they have experienced in many weeks.

The program was directed by Frank Purkett, who overlooked very few whom he asserted had sufficient cause for Thanksgiving to donate to the charity box, with the result that the fines for the day totaled $24.10.

Rev. Giffen spoke briefly of the Spirit of Thanksgiving basing his remarks on the first Thanksgiving that of the Pilgrims, and asserting that there were few who could not find some cause for giving thanks.

A. T. Somers, past president of the San Francisco Lions Club spoke briefly of the growth of Lionism in California, which he said is the most rapid of any in the nation.

One of the features of the meeting was the singing of a turkey and a goose, the former being sung by Dr. W. C. Mithelland, and the latter by A. T. Somers. Somers returned his prize to the club to be sold at auction during which it was bid in by Ed Morris, tall twister of the club.

About thirty members of the Redden den were guests at the dinner and a brief talk was made by President A. Terkel, of the visiting club.

Ad Mask Charity Ball Will Be Gala Event; Tickets To Go On Sale

Tickets for the second annual Ad Mask Charity Ball to be held in the Civic Auditorium Saturday night, December 16th, will go on sale to-morrow at several downtown stores. All members of the Fresno Advertising Club will have tickets for sale.

At last night's meeting of the general committee it was announced that Mrs. Harry Gregory will take the part of the "Greatest Mother on Earth." Mrs. Gregory will wear the costume made famous by the poster advertising the Red Cross during the World War. Miss Dorothy Brown, popular Fresno girl, and State College student, will take the part of "Miss Fresno." Superintendent Raymond L. Quigley of the playground department will impersonate "Santa Claus."

The entire proceeds of the dance will be given to charity. The Ad Club will devote part of the funds towards their annual Christmas dinner for the poor children and the remainder will go to the Red Cross.

E. Allen White's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. Mayor and Mrs. Truman G. Hart have been invited to lead the parade. Prizes will be given for the best display in costume of local and nationally advertised products.

A report on the meeting last night was made by Henry Avila at an executive meeting of the Fresno Advertising Club in the Commercial Club to-day.

A full report of plans which have been made for the annual luncheon to-morrow noon by H. A. Hoffman, general chairman of arrangements.

Aside from three-minute talks the meeting to-morrow will be devoted to discussion of the ball. Ed Holland will preside.

Present at the executive meeting to-day were Henry Avila, W. C. Beaumont, Lewis Wallace, E. E. Bradford and Sidney Green.

Al Sunderland Speaks Before Insurance Men At Banquet Last Night

Mostly admonition as well as historical bonquets was included in the address of Al Sunderland, vice-president of the California Peach and Fig Growers, made before the Fresno Chapter of Life Insurance Underwriters last night at the Commercial Club.

In addition to pointing out the value of co-operation in the insurance business, Sunderland urged his audience to guard against knocking fraternal benefit societies.

The speaker also suggested that with a membership of approximately seventy-five, the chapter should have a greater attendance at its regular meetings. He pointed out that proper giving of the insurance men something of real worth along lines of their own business would attract a larger attendance and make the association a more vital thing in the daily life of its members.

The meeting was held with a dinner and smoker at the Commercial Club. After Sunderland's speech the agents held a short business session.

ELLIOTT DEXTER WEDS DIVORCEE

Film Star And Mrs. Untermyer United in Marriage At De Mille Home

(By the United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Elliott Dexter, picture star, and Mrs. Nina Christolm Untermyer, who yesterday were not sure when they would marry, were on their honeymoon to-day.

Cecil B. De Mille, mutual friend, called them up late yesterday afternoon and told them he had arranged for a wedding at his home in Hollywood for the evening. As De Mille is Dexter's director, the couple could not but obey, and the ceremony, before a select company of film friends, was performed by the Rev. E. P. Ryland.

The bride is the divorced wife of Alvin Untermyer, wealthy sportsman of New York, and Dexter, outside of being a star in Hollywood, is the director of the picture "The Sign of the Cross."

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter will visit Coronado and Santa Barbara on their honeymoon which will be completed at Mrs. Dexter's beautiful home at Riverside.

New York Fire Fighting Methods To Be Adopted By Local Department

Fire fighting methods in use in the New York City department will be adopted by the Fresno department as the result of a course of training which will be taken by Captain J. M. Daugherty, recently appointed assistant director of the local department.

Metropolitan ideas will be obtained by personal contact while Daugherty is attending the New York City Fire College which opens on April 15, 1923, according to a message received to-day by Chief Thomas Baird from John Kenlon, chief of the New York City department.

Every phase of modern fire fighting will be learned by Daugherty the course of instruction including assignment to a metropolitan company, with which he will attend all-night calls. Academic and other instruction will be obtained through attendance at the college during the day.

The college course is made available by the New York fire department to officers of departments all over the country, and every year comes rather from all points of the compass to obtain this training in the greatest fire fighting organization in the world.

Fresno's application was accepted today in a telegram from Chief Kenlon.

Enforcement Law Of Bakersfield May Not Be Constitutional

(By Bee Bureau)

BAKERSFIELD (Kern Co.), Nov. 28.—The announcement that Bakersfield's "blue laws" may be unconstitutional because of certain legal qualifications, relative to the enforcement of the law, is a rather mediocre council meeting last night.

City Attorney E. P. Brittain expressed the opinion that the ruling of Archie A. Bollinger, deputy clerk of the county treasurer's office, was not correct. The council authorized him to draw up an amendment which would remedy the ordinance immediately.

In an endeavor to have the city annex the property located at the southern extremity of Chester Avenue, known as the Brundage tract, but to be subdivided as the Virginia tract, the subdividers, F. A. Nighbert and McIlvaine, appeared before the body.

Nighbert said that it is their intention to put in a tract of homes which would be a credit to the city and county and that this could hardly be done unless the city advantages could be obtained.

DEPUTY MAY BE APPOINTED

The action of the appointment of Archie A. Bollinger, deputy clerk of the county treasurer's office, as clerk of the finance department of the city of Fresno, will be asked by Commissioner Charles Dillon at the city commission meeting on Friday.

Bollinger will hold his new position for one month and nine days, according to Dillon, or until the new county government act, adopted at the last session of legislature, becomes effective.

PLEA CHANGED TO GUILTY

Timothy J. Sullivan, charged with a statutory offense, was permitted to change his original plea of not guilty to guilty before Superior Judge D. A. Cahill to-day. Judge Cahill set the date for fixing Sullivan's sentence at 2:30 A. M. December 15. Sullivan filed application for probation.

Federal Will Be Held

The funeral services of Suren Castarian, native of Armenia, will be held to-morrow afternoon at the Armenian Congregational Church, at 1:30. Castarian, who was 26 years old, had lived for some time in Fresno. He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Castarian, and eight brothers and sisters: Vohr, Fred, Ralph and Mary Castarian, Mrs. A. Hagopian, Mrs. A. Abarhian, Mrs. A. Krokorian, Fresno, and Lovest Castarian of Ingwood, Rev. M. Papazian will officiate.

Opium Case On Trial In Federal Court Here

The trial, before a jury, of Quong Duck, a local Chinese, charged with violating the federal opium act, occupied most of the morning session of the United States District Court. This case was continued over the noon period until this afternoon. H. G. Retallick is attorney for Duck and Assistant United States Attorney H. N. Ellis is prosecuting the case.

The prosecution exhibited to the jury several opium pipes and other utensils used by opium addicts, alleged to have been taken from Quong Duck's quarters. Duck declared that these utensils not only did not belong to him, but that he had never seen them before.

Salvation Army Heads Discuss Plans For $15,000 Campaign

Discussion of the campaign to raise $15,000 in Fresno for the support of the Salvation Army work here next year, occupied the attention of the executive committee of the organization at a meeting in the Hotel Fresno to-day, at which F. A. Homan, chairman, presided.

Plans for the drive, in which the Rotary, Lions and American Legion Club and the Scouts will actively cooperate, were considered at length.

Of the committee which will take charge of various sections of the drive, three are already at work: the preliminary campaign committee, which is following up letters recently sent to business concerns, the industries committee and the foreign industries committee. The latter is getting in touch with headquarters of Fresno business houses located elsewhere.

Chamber Of Commerce To Discuss Plan For Camp Ground Site

A plan will be worked out for the city commission to act on the proposed camp site at a meeting this afternoon in the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce rooms of the recently appointed camp ground committee, Manager H. H. Patterson announced to-day.

The committee composed of G. C. Roeding, Edwin Einstein, Tom Anton and H. E. Patterson was named a short time ago by Mayor Truman Hart to investigate the possibility of locating a new camp ground site to replace the present one in flooding Park which the park commission had ordered vacated during the coming year.

Roeding is opposing the plan to have the camp site in the park proper but he is endeavoring to secure another site which would be fairly close to the city and prove valuable to tourists parties.

The report of the committee will be given this afternoon and the details of a proposed plan then worked out.

Modern Cinderella For Girls In Teen Ages

Penelope's Problems. By Dorothea Castelhun. Page Company. $1.00.

Cinderella has had many followers since children first heard about her. Penelope, heroine of Penelope's Problems, is now the latest of these. She is a girl who washes dishes and bakes and sweeps while her cousin Evelyn enjoys the bonfire of the board.

But of course Penelope's sweetness and generosity are rewarded when the rich Forrester family comes to live in the little town, for she at once becomes a favorite with them. Through these friends her talent for sewing has promise of development.

The book will appeal to girls of the teen age or somewhat younger.

Enforcement Law Of Bakersfield May Not Be Constitutional

(By Bee Bureau)

BAKERSFIELD (Kern Co.), Nov. 28.—The announcement that Bakersfield's "blue laws" may be unconstitutional because of certain legal qualifications, relative to the enforcement of the law, is a rather mediocre council meeting last night.

City Attorney E. P. Brittain expressed the opinion that the ruling of Archie A. Bollinger, deputy clerk of the county treasurer's office, was not correct. The council authorized him to draw up an amendment which would remedy the ordinance immediately.

In an endeavor to have the city annex the property located at the southern extremity of Chester Avenue, known as the Brundage tract, but to be subdivided as the Virginia tract, the subdividers, F. A. Nighbert and McIlvaine, appeared before the body.

Nighbert said that it is their intention to put in a tract of homes which would be a credit to the city and county and that this could hardly be done unless the city advantages could be obtained.

DEPUTY MAY BE APPOINTED

The action of the appointment of Archie A. Bollinger, deputy clerk of the county treasurer's office, as clerk of the finance department of the city of Fresno, will be asked by Commissioner Charles Dillon at the city commission meeting on Friday.

Bollinger will hold his new position for one month and nine days, according to Dillon, or until the new county government act, adopted at the last session of legislature, becomes effective.

PLEA CHANGED TO GUILTY

Timothy J. Sullivan, charged with a statutory offense, was permitted to change his original plea of not guilty to guilty before Superior Judge D. A. Cahill to-day. Judge Cahill set the date for fixing Sullivan's sentence at 2:30 A. M. December 15. Sullivan filed application for probation.

SENATOR JOHNSON LAUDS ROOSEVELT

Former President Eulogized
At Meeting Of Progressives
Of Northern California

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Republican men and women of Northern California to the number of several hundred, representing every section of the state north of the Tehachapi, organized a Roosevelt Club at a dinner-meeting held in the Ball and Concert room of the Palace Hotel last night. Officers were elected and the club started on its way. United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson, the speaker of the evening, eulogized former President Theodore Roosevelt after the organization is named. Johnson took occasion to repudiate reports previously made that the club had for its purpose the bringing back to life of the Progressive Party in California. He said that it is intended to inculcate the ideals of Roosevelt in the people and perpetuate the progressive principles of the Republican party, which have been so successfully carried out during the last twelve years.

Purposes Outlined.
A resolution outlining the purposes of the organization and calling for election of officers, was unanimously adopted. The meeting was called to order by Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young, who in a few words introduced Albert E. Boynton, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, as chairman of the evening. Boynton briefly outlined the objects of the organization, and then introduced Senator Johnson.

Address by Johnson.
Johnson said in part as follows: "By happy coincidence Roosevelt's Realizable Ideals were given to the world from California. Here where a more sustained effort for a longer period was made than in any other state."

Dry Official Declares Liquor For Navy Party Was Imported To City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A conference on prohibition by Director Davis of Pennsylvania and federal prohibition officials on the alleged widespread violation of the dry law by midshipmen after the army-navy game in Philadelphia was held here today.

Davis indicated that he did not consider himself responsible for the alleged "wetness" of the navy at a leading Philadelphia hotel Saturday night. He stated that he believed the liquor which the midshipmen were reported to have consumed was "imported" into the city.

and where Progressivism was written into law as in no other commonwealth, it was singularly appropriate that the Rooseveltism realizable ideals should emanate.

"There is nothing strictly new or original in what Roosevelt thus presented, but the old truths and the new philosophy alike were embellished and given additional lustre by his eloquent simplicity and directness. His castigation of the dishonest purveyors of news, his ridicule of the individual who resorted to all his goodness for didactic maudlinism on Sunday, his exhortation of successful dishonesty will be long remembered."

Played Hypocrit.
"He saw clearly, too, the hollowness and hypocrisy of the partisan cry of successful secondhandism, and he pleaded that just as dishonestly was non-partisan, where honesty is involved, people should be non-partisan. We who have been through the fire in California know full well that there is no partisanship among the exponents of government, and we know how often the cry of partisanship is used by those who seek only selfish advantage."

"We are here as Republicans. For Republican success we have striven in the past, and we will strive in the future; but if the question comes between dishonest Republican dominance on the one hand, and the welfare of California on the other, Progressives choose California."

News From Bay District

Auto Driver Held.—John Floridin, 1128 Tenth Street, Oakland, at liberty on bail after being held to answer for driving an automobile while intoxicated, was charged with the same offense again yesterday following an accident Sunday night which resulted in the death of Hjalmar Anderson, 545 Ninth Street, Oakland. Floridin was arrested a week ago after a collision with the highway between this city and Walnut Creek in which the automobile of H. L. Bush of Martinez was wrecked. The accident Sunday night occurred on the same road and within half a mile of the same spot. Anderson was thrown out when the car left the road while running at high speed and received a fractured skull, which caused his death at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Card Games Divorce Cause.—Women who have played bridge whist with their husbands as partners will find sympathy in their hearts for Mrs. Julianne Vayssie of San Francisco, who was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Van Nostrand. Mrs. Vayssie testified that whenever she made a mistake at bridge her mate, Antoine, flew into a rage, left home and stayed out until 4 o'clock in the morning. If the play was for money and she lost, Vayssie called her "crazy" she said. Vayssie owns a string of local hotels, including the Woodstock and the Grand View. A property settlement was made out of court.

Hoover To Speak.—Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, will address the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce Forum tomorrow at its luncheon at the Palace Hotel. Secretary Hoover will discuss commercial and economic conditions in the United States and among foreign nations, and business men from all lines of commercial and industrial activity will be present to hear the famous Californian.

Among the appearances Secretary Hoover will make while here is a dedicatory ceremony next Monday at Stanford University when a bronze statue erected to commemorate his work for the Belgian Relief Fund will be presented.

Autoist Arrested.—Walker C. Craig, 913 Eddy Street, San Francisco, was arrested yesterday afternoon upon charges of reckless driving and violating the national prohibition law, after his automobile had collided with a taxicab at Hayes and Market Streets. In the collision Mrs. L. Dison, 913 Eddy Street, and John C. Hardee, 1233 Page Street, driver of the car, were slightly injured. They were treated at the Central Emergency Hospital. The police said they found a bottle containing a small amount of liquor in Craig's car.

Heavy Damages Asked.—Claiming that the wholesale and retail cigar business, established in San Francisco thirty-five years ago by his father, Mark Blackower, has been put out of business because of the failure of the Consolidated Cigar Corporation of New York to fill a contract, Charles A. Blackower brought suit in the superior court yesterday, charging breach of contract. He asked for judgment in the sum of $120,000 and costs.

Trousers Pockets Sacred.—A feminine prerogative as old as pyramids, fell in Oakland yesterday and the consequences may be world shaking. Superior Judge J. W. Harris ruled that a man's trousers pockets are sacred, that they are as much his own as the safe in his office, and that no wife has the right to search them or take anything from them. Judge Harris held that violation of the sacred precincts of the trousers pockets constituted cruelty sufficient to warrant a divorce decree for John J. Oliver of Albany.

Three Asphyxiated.—Mrs. V. E. Musso and her two girls, 2 and 3 years old, were found dead in the kitchen of their apartment at 1717 Greenwich Street, San Francisco, early last evening by the husband and father when he returned home from work. Unlighted gas jets were turned on in the kitchen stove and in the water heater. The bodies of the children were lying on the floor with a pillow under their heads and the body of the mother was lying where it had fallen in front of the kitchen stove. Mrs. Musso left a note in Italian directed to her husband. It was somewhat rambling and asked his pardon for "something" she was about to do.

Guard To Parade.—The Third Battalion, 125th Infantry, National Guard, will hold a parade and review to-night at 8:15 at the state armory, Fourteenth and Mission Streets. The 125th Infantry Band of Oakland will play the incidental military music of the parade. Major A. E. Graupner will be in command of the battalion, of which four companies will participate. Company I will under command of Captain Frank L. Webb; Company K, Captain Frank H. Stoner; Company L, Captain Robert Merrill, and Company M, Captain George N. Browning. Lieutenant A. E. Stone has been detailed as adjutant. The review and parade is open to the public, after which officers and men of the guard will escort visitors around the armory on a tour of inspection.

Fight For Boy Lost.—A bitter battle for the custody of 5 year old Kenneth Johnson, fought in the courts for four years by Mrs. Albert Frankenstein of Chicago, mother of the boy, and Miss Jean Norris, formerly of San Francisco, the child's legal guardian, was won yesterday by Miss Norris according to a Seattle dispatch. Proceedings to regain custody of the child, instituted by the mother, were denied by Superior Judge Kniff Drakman of Seattle.

Two Claims Estate.—A post-mortem discovery of an alleged marriage tangle was made yesterday when there was filed for probate a will disposing of the $5,000 estate of Mrs. Amy Hill, who died recently as the result of burns suffered in a fire at 2255 Mission Street, San Francisco. John Hill, claiming to be the husband, filed the petition. Attorney Raymond Barry said yesterday he will appear before Superior Judge Danne to-day to contest Hill's claim on behalf of Harvey Culver, a traveling salesman, who also declares he was the deceased's husband. Barry says Culver has informed him that he was divorced from Mrs. Hill in 1914 and remarried her at Redwood City in 1916.

The New Remington No. 12

Call, See and Listen

Call at our salesroom where the new Remington No. 12 is being demonstrated. You will recognize the familiar Remington design and the noteworthy Remington features—the Self-Starter, the Natural Touch and the many other betterments which are significant of Remington progress.

See the improvements which have been made to an already tried and proved machine—the spiral, piano-wire anvil, the new platen and bail, the noise-eliminating escapement, the sound-proof side plates.

Listen and you will realize at once why these refinements have been added. You will listen in vain for the usual clicks and taps and hums. They are practically gone.

The price of the new No. 12 is $110—only $7.50 more than the price of the Standard Correspondence Remington—a very small premium to pay for office quiet.

McAdoo's Speech Showed How Political Wind May Blow

William Gibbs McAdoo delivered his address before the Bar Association in Fresno last night.

It was not a political speech in the sense of endorsement of the Democratic Party, but it was an exposition of the thoughts of William Gibbs McAdoo on how politics could be made to serve the country, especially the farmers, and Fresno is essentially an agricultural community.

Most of his audience last night reached the conclusion that William Gibbs McAdoo is an aspirant for the Democratic nomination for president in 1924, a suspicion which has been abroad in the land since he changed his residence to California several years ago.

Of recent months, an active interest in public affairs, coupled with a generous acceptance of invitations to speak, indicate a watchful waiting policy with some preparedness.

With propriety McAdoo is seeking opportunities to become known in California communities, through the medium of non-political speeches.

So what McAdoo said last night was not so interesting as a speech as indication of what he thinks the issues of 1924 should be.

And as he outlined them last night—agricultural credits, transportation adopted to the farmers' needs, warehousing with credit upon receipts, the use of governmental agencies to improve the farmers' condition, that sketch fitted Fresno's needs well.

Just as strongly he hammered pass-away at a political reform—helpful to the country as well as McAdoo's candidacy—the growth of a larger body of voters independent of parties who will cast their ballots through no conventional party ties, but as the issue and the candidates make advisable.

A Democratic victory is possible in 1924, for the slump the Republicans suffered this month, will be aggravated if no stronger policy is adopted to satisfy the demands of the voters.

In Democratic ranks, McAdoo would be a strong contender, for he is well entrenched in New York and in Illinois and had the power to add doubtful California to the Democratic list he would make a strong appeal to Democrats hungry for four years.

But McAdoo would have no chance of securing the Democratic nomination unless it were felt he could carry California and that chance would be negligible should it come to pass that William Johnson secured the Republican nomination.

But as the Democratic convention follows the Republican, that contingency will have been settled before McAdoo's name goes before the Democrats.

Two years bring many changes, and in that time, McAdoo may have lost all strength as a contender.

Fresno, however, had the advantage of hearing one of the opening guns of the presidential campaign, whatever way she may vote when that distant election comes to pass.

The People Should Decide The Fate Of Amendments

The steadily growing demand for direct popular election of the president and vice-president of the United States by popular vote was evidenced last week by the National Grange's adoption of a resolution calling for that progressive reform.

And there is before congress a resolution providing for submission to the legislatures of the respective states of a constitutional amendment which would bring about that change.

The Bee supports the idea of such an amendment, in accord with its advocacy of making all existing amendments to the federal constitution subject to change or abolition by majority vote of the citizens of the United States, voting as such and irrespective of state lines.

The Tendency To Centralization Of Power

The tide of measures involving more or less stretch of federal authority continues to rise at Washington.

The tendency seems to be growing for baffled minorities in any state to appeal to congress for legislation which cannot be had at home.

That appears to be the chief explanation of efforts to get national regulation of such matters as marriage and divorce, race-tracks and gambling, likewise censorship of movies, the regular stage and amusements in general, and also measures with relation to the public schools.

Among illustrative measures of this nature is the bill before congress to punish all members of a mob that may take part in a lynching.

In order to make this sufficiently "far-reaching," even spectators are made liable to severe penalties, and a fine of $10,000 may be imposed on any county in which a lynching may occur, with a like penalty for any county through which lynchings may pass with their victims.

The objection to this measure is one of principle. No justification is attempted for lynching, which is a crime under the laws of every state in the Union, and admits of no defense.

Nor is there anything "progressive" in this bill. On the contrary, Senator Borah, one of the leading Progressives in the Nation, not only opposes but denounces it as "a drastic invasion of state rights."

By this he does not mean that a state has a right to encourage or tolerate lynching, but that the federal constitution justly and properly reserves all such matters to the sole control and jurisdiction of the states severally. And in this he unquestionably is correct.

Arrest The Owner As Well As Speeding Driver

The chauffeur of William Gibbs McAdoo was arrested in Tulare County yesterday afternoon while speeding the former secretary of the treasury at fifty-one miles an hour.

The arrest and citation to court was against the chauffeur, not against McAdoo.

Wherein a grave mistake is made which results in discrimination before the law.

The owner of the automobile when present is the responsible party. It is he who pays the chauffeur who must obey the orders of his employer and it is good law that the principal is responsible for the acts of his agent.

The McAdoo automobile was speeding along under the orders of the knowledge and consent of McAdoo, and either condition made him equally guilty with his chauffeur.

If this doctrine be not enforced, there will be no end to the speeding of automobiles. The owner of the car is above the law, for the owner need only pay the chauffeur the fine of his chauffeur or doubling his wages while that agent suffers a jail sentence.

McAdoo need not fear the indignity of imprisonment.

But every other man, who has not sufficient money to hire a chauffeur, risks jail sentence when his automobile exceeds the speed limit.

Which is a discrimination which should not be allowed to exist.

From information obtained this morning, it appears that conviction as an accomplice is ordinarily a difficult proceeding, while the Motor Vehicle Law is apparently silent on the subject, carrying no specific provision.

Whereupon in the present campaign to enforce the motor vehicle laws it would be well for the next legislature to consider an amendment whereby the owner when present would be held equally responsible with the chauffeur for speeding.

An interesting sidelight on the incident was the request to newspapers made personally by McAdoo that nothing be printed upon the subject.

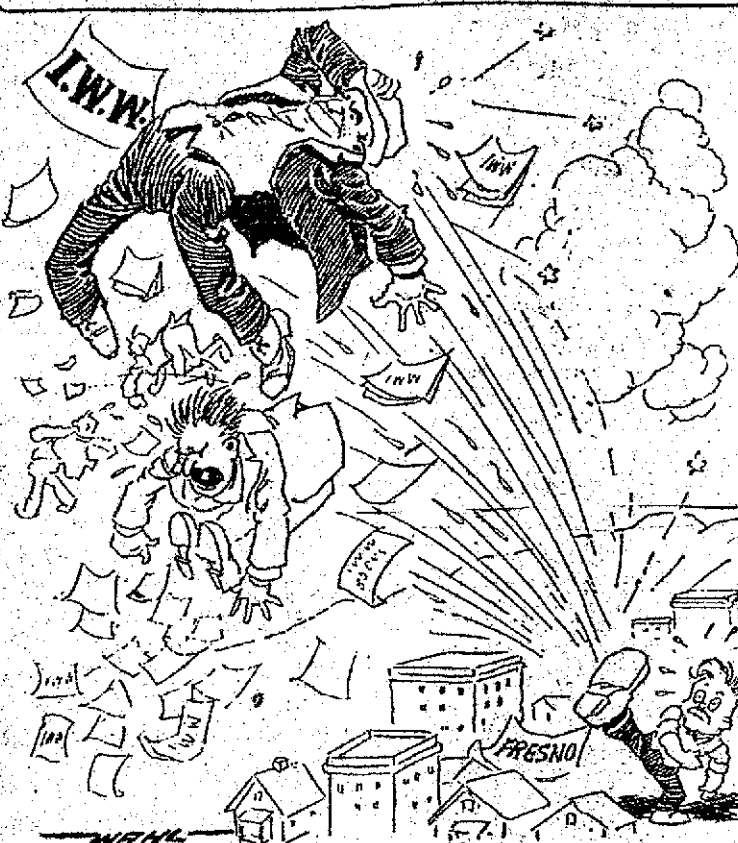

The only reason given was his desire that as a favor to him the newspapers say nothing.

Very properly, as their duty lies, the newspapers are printing the story, recognizing no right in McAdoo to be exempt from the publication of law violations.

Both before the law and in newspapers all individuals should be equal.

Favoritism in a privileged few is the bane of Americanism.

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Building of the New Dam
By THORNTON W. BURGESS
(Copyright, 1922, by T. W. Burgess)

Peter Rabbit, who, as you know, has many narrow escapes from danger every day, and therefore has to be continually watching out, was almost envious of Faddy the Beaver and Mrs. Paddy as he watched them towing food logs through their new pond on their way to the old pond where their food pile was to be.

Yet they can go and come in safety with nothing to worry about while I must be on the watch for danger every instant," thought Peter. "That doesn't seem fair to me. No, sir, it doesn't seem fair." So he Peter had quite forgotten that Paddy and Mrs. Paddy had made that safety for themselves by hard work.

But things are not always as they seem. There was one danger point which Peter had overlooked, but which Paddy and Mrs. Paddy were fully aware of. It was the place where they had to drag their food logs over the new dam to float them down the Laughing Brook to the old pond. There, of course, they had to come out of the water.

But if Peter had overlooked this danger point Paddy and Mrs. Paddy had not. They knew it was the one place where such enemies as Fowler the Bob Cat or Old Man Coyote or both would discover that place and lie in wait for them. So they had chosen with the greatest of care the spot where those logs were to be dragged across the dam. They meant to take no chances. They chose a place almost in the middle of the dam and where the water in the pond was deepest.

When they reached this point they never scrambled out hastily or heedlessly. They first listened carefully for any suspicious sounds, and tested the air with their keen noses for any strange scent. Of course, at the same time they used their eyes. But it was on their ears and their noses that they depended most. Not until they were sure that it was safe to do so would one of them climb up on the dam. Usually this one was Paddy. Once up on the dam he would again use ears, nose and eyes to make sure that no enemy was lurking on the other side.

As soon as he was sure of this they would work as fast as they could to get the logs and branches over the dam and down into the water on the other side. But while they worked they never for an instant forgot to watch out. This was the danger point where carelessness might cost them their lives.

The next story "Fowler the Bob Cat Plans for a Beaver Dinner."

SONNET OF STRANGE SIMILES.

(S. K. in Life)

My love is like a stick of spearmint gum—
The flavor lasts—my love is like the tune.
My neighbor plays each morning until noon
(That is, it haunts me always); mute and dumb.

My love is like a punctured Rottitulum.
The brightest after sunset, like the moon.
And, like the onion, strongest during June;
My love is ardent as forbidden rum.

Sometimes my love is diffident and shy,
Like a Ford car seeking a place to park;
Or like a husband in a corset shop;
Sometimes it struts and holds its head up high,
Like a Knight Templar or a meadow lark,
Or a dress-suited freshman at a hop.

Can You Tell?

By R. J. and A. W. BODHER

No. 38—What Was the First Railroad Accident in America?

The first serious accident on an American railroad occurred on the Erie Railroad near Pottsville, Pa. The road had been in operation about five years and was still using four-wheeled cars and locomotives without cabs. The wheels were cast with spokes instead of being solid, as they are now.

A broken wheel caused a car to leave the rails and crash through a bridge. Six passengers died as a result and twenty were injured. G. W. Oliver, a passenger, sued for damages on the contention that the accident was due to a broken wheel. The railroad company admitted the broken wheel, but denied responsibility on the ground that there was no way of telling whether a wheel was defective or not. Two car wheels were brought into court. First one and then the other was struck with a hammer. One gave out a clear ringing sound and the other a flat, dead sound. One wheel was therefore sound and the other cracked.

A verdict for $20,000 was given to Mr. Oliver, and he suit started the custom of testing car wheels by tapping them with a hammer when trains stopped at division points. So the first railroad accident caused the first damage suit for personal injuries, and in turn brought about important changes in the structure of wheels and established the first "Safety First" custom in connection with railroad travel.

Hundreds of thousands of railroad passengers have since that time been aroused from slumber by the noise of this hammering on car wheels at night as a result of the test made in the court room during the trial of this suit.

Merely Some Private Thoughts By C. K.

HERE is considerable difference between a court sentence that may be considered commendable in some ways, and one which is judicially correct or lawfully permissible.

For instance, Judge Russ Avery of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County the other day sentenced a young scamp to attend some church every Sunday for three years.

Some people seem to consider that an excellent judicial move.

Yet the judge had no more right to give that "punishment" than he would have to sentence the lad to go fishing every Sunday.

In Detroit a judge forced reckless motorists whose speeding had endangered the lives of others, to view the mangled forms of little children resting on beds of pain in hospitals.

And in Cleveland, another judge forced six traffic law violators to attend the funeral of a little girl who had been run over by an automobile.

In neither instance had the motorists thus treated injured anyone.

These "judicial" sentences also have been commended.

But they were sentences absolutely beyond the right of any judge to give; entirely without legal authority; a specimen of judicial tyranny that any judge should be ashamed to employ.

What might be a salutary lesson and what is within the province of a court to inflict are things that may be as far apart as the poles.

For instance, it might be a goodly lesson to some lads who are going wrong to force them to witness a couple of hangings in San Quentin, or in Folsom.

But that would be a shameful, an infamous, usurpation of authority.

And yet intently the examples of judicial assumption of power cited above are no less insolent, presumptuous, and illegal.

The evils of such sentences are not so much in themselves as in the precedent they establish.

Granted to any judge the power to do what some judges are doing, and you permit other judges to back hard practically to medieval days, and dole out punishment that may go even beyond the bounds of mere illegality and become positive and outrageous cruelty.

The time to nip this menace to the rights and liberties of the citizens in the bud is right now.

Any man who refuses to stand for any extra-judicial and illegal punishment, either for himself or for his son, will be not only well within his rights; he will also be doing a very commendable act.

And no judge would dare attempt to enforce such a decree—that is, no member of the judiciary who is fit to sit upon the bench.

COCKTAILS FOR PLANTS

The best way to cure many a sick man is to give him poison.

This is not intended as a feeble jocular reference to the well known remedy once proscribed in the form of the guillotine for the feds of the French aristocracy. Nor is it any other kind of a joke feeble or robust. It is an exact fact.

For instance, what does the doctor do when he thinks you need a heart stimulant? He gives you strychnine or perhaps digitalis or, nitroglycerine; all of them violent poisons. But the point is that he gives you a small dose. A sixteenth of a grain of strychnine is stimulating. A large dose, say half a grain, is poisonous. This is a very common circumstance. Many poisons, perhaps most of them, are stimulating if given in small doses. Even John Barleycorn furnishes a case in point.

All of this is common knowledge. What isn't common knowledge, what indeed has only recently been discovered, is that exactly the same thing is true of plants. The scientists who are investigating the conditions under which plants grow well or poorly, discovered a long time ago that when a considerable quantity of copper sulphate or blue vitriol is mixed with the soil in which plant roots are grown, the roots are killed. The copper sulphate poisons them. Suppose, however, that we put into the soil only a very small quantity of copper sulphate. If we get the quantity just right, the plant is not poisoned. Indeed sometimes it grows faster, it is stimulated.

It is necessary to be extremely careful in interpreting such experiments. Unlike a human patient the plant cannot tell us when it has a headache or when it feels fine. One must judge by the rate of growth, the weight of the tops or roots produced in a given time or the like.

In very precise experiments we cannot use soil but must grow the plants with their roots in water to which have been added the exact amounts of food materials or medicines which we wish the plants to have. Like doctors do with human patients we put our plants on a liquid diet. Many careful experiments have been carried out in this fashion on the effects of copper and other poisonous elements on wheat plants, barley, peas and others. The conclusion is that in many cases, perhaps in all, small doses of the poison are stimulating, just as are small doses of strychnine to animals. The plants are more active, they grow faster. As there are for the human body many stimulating poisons besides strychnine so there are many substances which act in this way on plants.

Will these effects ever be used practically? Will science give us precisely highballs for plants, spring tonic for tired vegetables? Who knows? Naturally the plant physiologists are uncertain of details and cautious in making prophecies. The medical profession did not come all in a minute how to use strychnine. But it is worth while to remember that John Watt's tea kettle has had some rather important descendants and science probably has not finished obtaining large results from small beginnings. "Dope" for plants has interesting implications. Imagine, for instance, a cabbage with the cocaine habit!

THE MORALS QUESTION

Adoption Of Delicate Code By W. C. T. U. Is Recommended

Editor The Bee—Sir:

The Fresno Morning Republican, under date of November 16th, conveyed the information that the opening guns had been fired in Philadelphia by the W. C. T. U. for the clash of nature with convention. Perhaps a new code of morals applying to both sexes would be advisable, but the question seems to open a big field for the clash of ideas as well as nature and convention.

Some say morals were never better. Some say they were never worse. Some people stand in between, take them as they are, and go on hoing their own row.

Some are of the opinion that all men are equal, and that no particular person or class can establish a code of morals for all to the exclusion of other codes.

There is still another class who take the position that a code of morals was laid down in the long ago and that it is not a question of adopting a code, but of living up to the one in existence.

The difficulty with the old code is that it does not embody the eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not drink." If the world is to be made dry it is necessary to put this in the new code to get the support of Mohammedanism. I have been told that this aversion to drink has been a doctrine of the Mohammedan world for a considerable length of time, and it is consoling to get after so many centuries of discord an opportunity for blending the two religions.

However, the adoption of one code of morals for men and women would appear, as matters stand, to present the greatest difficulty. In fact, I think the men might well wait until something definite emanated from the other side before giving their co-operation to a program of this nature.

Some women want the vote, some a husband, some a divorce, and some a free union; some want cigarettes, some trousers, and some their divorced husband's children. Of course these questions might be entirely outside the domain of morals. However, some would claim they were in, and should there be a dispute on the women's side it would be difficult to induce the men to extend the invitation to come over.

To simply mention these possible difficulties in the hope that discussion might help clear the way for a definite program suitable to all. This would avoid passing a law about half the population to the other half, thus conflicting with the Socialist idea that everyone should work.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN A. STEELE
Mason, Hider, Fresno, Cal.
November 27.

CRITICIZES HEADLINES

Should Tell a Story, Not Be Chinese Puzzle

Editor The Bee—Sir:

A newspaper is the only practical means by which we (the public) can get news—general news. We appreciate that.

I cannot cross that Fresno is very fortunate in having so many first-class newspapers. But I feel it the duty of every citizen to criticize them. I have taken it upon myself, being one of a mass of people called "The Public," to write a few words in regard to these papers.

A few weeks ago I noticed in one of the papers—not yours, by the way—a headline reading thus: "Alan Shot on West Side." That was ridiculous—a man being shot on his west side, for that is what it literally meant. I spent many days trying to determine which was my west side, but it was in vain.

Another headline read: "Vandeville Star Hatched on Side." She must have been a boxing genius to have done that. I don't believe Jack Dempsey could do that.

These headlines were probably caused by misprint. Either that, or one of the men—the one who wrote the headline—does not belong in the newspaper business.

Therefore, I would advise all newspaper editors to fix up their machinery, because we readers do not have much time to spend trying to find the point to these headlines. Respectfully yours,
CHARLES EASTER
Fresno, Cal., Nov. 28, 1922.

A Fairy Bride

By EARL STRACHAN

"TELL us a story," my youngsters said.
As I tucked them up in their trundle bed:
"Tell us a story of long ago,
When you roamed on Ireland's hills, you know—
Tell us of Goblins and Elves and things
That fly through the caves on airy wings."

Tell of the witcher, old and gray
Who give commands to each faithful fay."

So, I told them the story of O'Hara, the Bold,
Who roamed each night on the county wold;
How he met the witch, the Old Mad Maid,
There on the mountain's steepest grade.
How she waved her wand in the dim twilight,
And how a Goblin, as dark as night,
Rose from the earth as vapors rise,
And stood, terrific in form and size.

And carry O'Hara to Noman's Land,
And carry O'Hara to Puma's Land,
How other Goblins, a motley crew,
Quickly from stones and heather grew.
How every eye shot a vengeful dart
That filled with fear O'Hara's heart:
That is, all but one, who in accents low
Begged the chief Goblin to let him go.

"Give him to me," this Goblin cried,
"And I will set him a fairy bride.
She will rule his home as a faithful wife,
And guide his footsteps all through life."
"We'll do it," the Goblins shout,
And in fiendish joy they dance about;
And O'Hara in terror sees their glee
While wondering what his fate will be.

"Take him away," cries the Goblin chief,
And O'Hara is filled with great relief.
Till he thinks of his life with a Fairy bride,
Constantly flying by his side.
Then one lone Goblin waves his hand,
And there is a chariot, large and grand,
Into the coach is O'Hara placed,
And off two fiery dragons raced.

Away they go to the hills afar,
To the land where kindly Fairies are,
And pays on the south wind side to see What manner of mortal this man may be.
"We come," said the Goblin, "to seek a bride
To ride in this coach by O'Hara's side:
One who will ever faithful be,
And guide his life on land and sea."

Around them float the Fairies fair,
Gracefully flying through the air.
"He comes," he comes to seek a bride!"
The greatest glee the fairies cried.
"I'll be the one," cried a fairy fay,
"And I'll go with him to his home to-day."
"Hurrah! Hurrah!" the others shout,
And in joy they dance and fit about.
